

Abstract

A method and system is provided for providing content from a content provider to a viewer over a data network. The content is associated with an option to: (1) view 5 content with advertisements during the content for no compensation; or (2) view content without advertisements during the content for compensation.

09849495-050401
FOI050" 56464860